Over the past four years, I have watched you grow from timid, shy freshmen into young ladies and gentlemen. When you came here, few of you had any idea what you wanted to do after high school. Now, I watch as you stride confidently out of childhood and into adulthood, prepared and confident.

Five years ago, I had hopes for a better school and changes I wanted made. Four years ago, I shared my dreams with you and you helped make them a reality. I am proud of this school and of you for helping make it what it is.

Now it is time for you to hope your own hopes and make the changes in your lives that will make your dreams a reality. I hope, we here at Bloomfield Tech, have helped you get started on your way toward that goal.

Remember all that you have learned here not just in your shops and academic classes, but also the life skills you have learned; the importance of friendship, respect for yourself and those around you, self confidence, self discipline, and most of all success. Yes, you have learned how to succeed, not only in school, but in life.

Good luck to you all. Much success and happiness.

Your Principal,
Mr. Fiorini

Director

Dear Class of 1997:

Congratulations on completing one of the major milestones in the preparation of your lives.

My experiences with this class will always be one of the highlights in my career. Your accomplishments are sufficient to project you into the next phase of your education. You have demonstrated growth and maturity through your concern for others. Your respect for your peers and teachers and your exceptional contribution to the school's reputation will always be remembered.

As You go forth in life and reflect on your experiences at Bloomfield Tech and on the individual members of your class, we hope that you will perceive your experiences here as one that has given you the necessary tools to assist you in your pursuit of an enjoyable and successful life.

I wish you continued success in the future.

Sincerely,

Eli S. Noble, Jr., Ed.D., Vice Principal

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN

congratulates the Bloomfield Vocational Technical High School Class of 1997

At SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, the world is our classroom

CHALLENGE

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN challenges readers to think, reflect, explore. It's exciting, satisfying, fun.

ADVENTURE

Whether tracking tornadoes, measuring Olympic athletes' performances or pushing closer to a cure for cancer, you'll appreciate the adventure of science at its best.

STIMULATION

Each issue, each article, arouses the reader's mind to fundamental issues and new applications . . . timely challenges and startling answers.

ANTICIPATION

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN looks forward and back. Discovering the future of technology; dating the birth of planets; seeking the secrets of the immune system; plotting the curve of time.

INQUIRY

To examine facts, assumptions, prejudices, truths . . . this is the scientists' quest, and the desire of our editors and readers alike.

INVOLVEMENT

Working scientists and Nobel laureates present their work in SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN. Our readers react to it, assess, judge it. Everyone participates.

CHANGE

Change is a given in science as well as in SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN. So you'll have the most exciting seat in the house as science anticipates, measures and facilitates change.
